N.R. Choultry turns fortress

Police and Election Officers monitor the visuals from 16 CCTV cameras installed in the surroundings of Nanjaraja Bahadur (N.R.) Choultry. Picture right shows Election staff carrying sealed Control Units and Ballot Units to the high-security 'EVM and VVPAT Storage Room' set up at N.R. Choultry on Vinoba Road in city this morning.

Process of storing and booth-wise segregation of EVMs, VVPATs begins under strict vigil

Mysuru, Mar.13 (RK&BCT)- In its endeavour to conduct free, fair and transparent Lok Sabha elections, the Election Commission of India (ECI), through the Mysuru District Administration, has initiated innumerable measures and has set up different mechanisms and practices along with issuing of various instructions and guidelines to tackle security issues related to storage of Electronic Voting Machines (EVMs), Control Units and Voter Verifiable Paper Audit Trial (VVPAT) machines in the Strong Rooms.

In Mysuru, Nanjaraja Bahadur Choultry on Vinoba Road has been taken over by the District Administration and Police. EVMs and other election paraphernalia are stored here. Interestingly, the Choultry has been renovated by Public Works Department based on the guidelines issued by the ECI.

The sections of the Choultry that will store the election machinery is called "EVM and VVPAT Storage Room" and today, the Election Officers were completing the process of marking, classifying and packing the EVMs, VVPAT and Control Units and segregating them based on the Polling Booths for the Mysuru-Lok Sabha Constituency. Obnoxious Oratory

The nation's Lok Sabha is heading to be a reality for the 17th time in a span of seven decades of its rule as a democracy. The elderly may feel tickled if they are reminded about their referring to the number 17 in days past. Their humour was lost on students not crossing the bar many times in the two public examinations, one was LS (Lower Secondary or the now-extinct five-rupee-examination) and the other was SSLC (Secondary School Leaving Certificate or twelve-rupee-examination). A recap from the land's chequered long history should bring home the relevance of that odd number Mohammed of Ghazni (998 - 1041), the Sultan of Ghaznavid Empire, Afghanistan, came to India 17 times basically to loot the wealth in the temples of the land. The looting act of that daring invader doesn't seem to have ceased except for the change of the persona whose identity is as clear as daylight. The naive among the land's people are also aware of their unabated looting of public funds by the elected representatives of people in seats of power and authority.

The vote-seekers have gone into an overdrive to lure the 90-crore electorate by indulging in fierce war of words, with no holds barred, unmindful of mutually exposing their unedifying profiles, which the voting masses are taking in their strides, enjoying the obnoxious oratory of the netas.

The later part of the 19th century and the first half of the 20th century marked periods of the land's legendary orators exhorting its masses to rise from their slumber and take active part in showing the exit door to the colonialists. The first decade following the birth of democracy also had its share of luminaries that the electorate sent to the country's Parliament and Legislative Assemblies of different States. Decorous dissent and mutual respect were the hallmark of the people's elected representatives in public life while they took part in debates on the floor of Legislature. The bad apples in administration suffering suffocation amidst those with upright character and impeccable public image in the young democracy still lives in the memory of today's senior citizens.

The Election Commission of India has once again, as a routine, stipulated the dos and don'ts that the vote-seekers must follow scrupulously. The extent to which they fall in line shall be the yardstick to judge the quality of the netas and their conduct in public life. The NOTA (none of the above) button of the EVM (Electronic Voting Machine) needs to be pressed by the voters to keep the obnoxious orators at bay.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Some years ago, in one of the branches of a public sector bank where I was working, a high profile and well-respected customer stepped in for a credit facility to help his vagabond son set up a small business and be on his own. From his emotional outburst, all that we could infer was that his son ate and slept well, had a well-built physique but fared badly on the academic front. For such a person, elders at home would traditionally recommend discontinuing studies and gifting a pair of buffaloes to graze the fields, I thought aloud. My reverie was broken with the customer lamenting that his son wanted to become a 'bouncer' for, besides the attractive compensation in monetary terms, it offered a host of unimaginable perks and privileges and a special status to boot. I later learnt that bouncers are persons employed in discotheque or similar places to prevent trouble-makers and anti-social elements from creating a nuisance in the premise or are hired by celebrities as their personal guard. *— M.S. Students smoke to understand subject better

Beijing: Students of a college in China were allowed to smoke in the classroom in order to understand the subject better. The students had taken up a course on tobacco.

Though the controversial photos originally went viral on a Chinese social media website last year, they've been resurfacing on various other social networks and news sites ever since. Young students can be seen lighting cigarettes and casually smoking them, while others take photos with smartphones and the teacher casually observes the spectacle.

College students took to the web to defend the course and their instructor, saying that this type of "sensory analysis" of tobacco is a vital a part of their "Cigarette Know-how" class, and mentioning that it doesn't happen day by day. "This isn't actually smoking, we're studying this career, sensory analysis is important," one scholar commented.

Mom leaves child on street for poor exam performance

Beijing: A strict Chinese mother reportedly abandoned her 12-year-old son on a busy street after he only managed to score 81 percent in an exam, which apparently was not good enough to her.

Police Officers, who found the boy wandering on streets close to where his mother dropped him off before driving away. Passers-by had seen the woman stopping her car in the area, pulling the boy out and then scolding and hitting him before leaving him there by himself.

CCTV footage shows the officers approaching the child in an attempt to find out what happened. They later told local reporters that the boy had been abandoned for not achieving the 95 percent score that his mother had expected.

VOICE OF THE READER

EC should strengthen voter feedback mechanism

Sir,

The Election Commission (EC) has launched a new 'Citizens Vigil' or cVIGIL app for the benefit of voters ahead of the general elections. The app has been launched with a primary focus to enable the citizens report any instances related to non-compliance of Model Code of Conduct (MCC) during the elections. The app further acts as an effective feedback mechanism for a voter to reach out directly to the EC.

The efforts made by the EC to monitor the voter feedback effectively through apps is welcome. The move however benefits only a smartphone savvy user, especially in urban and peri-urban areas.

A novice voter has no other way to reach out to EC other than the newly-launched app. The EC should now strive to open 'all' the possible digital and offline mode of communication tools to further strengthen the voter feedback mechanism.

EC should initiate various effective communication tools like a dedicated postal mail box, an (Nodal Officer based) email ID, Tollfree SMS feedback mechanism, social media handles and also a new single window website to register only the feedback (similar to CPGRAMS portal).

The move will further help ensure that a voter has accessibility to all the open channels to communicate to EC. The move will thus enable every individual to participate pro-actively in casting a vote and will further help ensure ECI to conduct hassle-free elections.

A meeting of Karnataka State PU College Lecturers Association was held at a private hotel here on Tuesday, during which it was decided to boycott evaluation of II PU answer scripts until the Government fulfils the Association's demands.

The demands of PU lecturers include starting of PU classes from May 28 instead of May 2, 30-day earned leave every year, 20-day half-wage leave and holiday on second Saturday of every month, making answer scripts evaluation optional rather than compulsory.

HDK defends son rising

Bengaluru, Mar. 13 (KMS& BCT)- Strongly defending his decision to introduce his son Nikhil Kumaraswamy to politics as Janata Dal (Secular) candidate from party bastion Mandya, Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy (HDK) yesterday said that he was not the first person who had set such trend to project a family member in the State and the electoral history will speak for itself.

Kumaraswamy, who appeared upset over developments surrounding his son's candidature from Mandya, charged that there was a systematic campaign against Nikhil's candidature. Ever since HDK and his father JD(S) supremo H.D. Deve Gowda announced the party's decision to field Nikhil from Mandya, the actor has been attracting trolls on social media.

A group has even launched 'Go Back Nikhil' campaign, sharing memes through various social media platforms following which Nikhil has been stuck with the "outsider" tag. Speaking to newsmen, HDK said there were hundreds of examples wherein several political leaders mentored and introduced their sons and siblings into politics, beyond their home districts.

"There are for and against views in all constituencies. Several leaders have contested from constituencies which they had no familiarity with. They hail from a particular constituency, but have contested and won from a different constituency. For instance, BJP's D.V. Sadananda Gowda hails from Mangaluru, but he is now an MP from Bangalore North. B.S. Yeddyurappa is from Mandya, but he is doing politics in Shivamogga. I was born in Hassan, but I represent Ramanagaram. Anybody can contest from anywhere. However, I know there is a systematic campaign, though there is no opposition in Mandya," he added.

Defending his decision to field his son Nikhil from Mandya, he said that "Nikhil has shown interest to contest from Mandya as per the wishes of the voters in the district." HDK said that people of Mandya knew about his family for years and his family would never "misuse" the love and affection of the people of Mandya. "We have had this bond for several years now. It is the people who will decide — not leaders of any party," he added. The CM said those who were active on social media more often than not abstained from venturing out and exercising their franchise.

He indirectly clarified that there is no going back on the decision. "A decision has been taken and we will go before the people," he said. Asked about the seat sharing agreement between Congress and JD(S), HDK said both the parties will reach an amicable decision soon.

'Swabhimanakkaagi Sumalatha' slogan grips Mandya

Sumalatha digs her heels in; says contest is for sure

Mandya/ Mysuru, Mar. 13 (Nagaiah, DM&BCT)- Sumalatha Ambarish, wife of late actor-politician M.H. Ambarish made her intentions clear yesterday when she said, "I will contest from Mandya. I will not go back on my word or rethink," she said.

Speaking to press persons at Cauvery Vana in Mandya, Sumalatha said there was no question of going back on contesting the forthcoming Lok Sabha (LS) elections. Appealing the people not to take rumours seriously, she said that Congressmen from across Mandya district are pressurising her to contest the polls from Mandya LS seat.

Her only confusion was whether she would contest independently or on a Congress ticket, and this would become clear before Mar. 18, she said. A few people are using social media to mislead voters, Sumalatha added. She said that she believes in the faith and emotional attachment of the people and the blessings of Ambarish, and no one can stop her from contesting.

Sumalatha, who has been touring the district for the past two weeks to enhance her support base and to garner support of Congress leaders, met Congress leader Dr. H.N. Ravindra and his supporters near the statue of Sir M. Visvesvaraya (Cauvery Vana) off Bengaluru–Mysuru Highway.

Dr. Ravindra, former President of the Indian Medical Association (IMA) who had unsuccessfully contested election to the Legislative Council from South Graduates' Constituency as the Congress nominee in 2016, has been on a fast along with some like-minded party workers from Sunday, opposing the candidature of Nikhil Kumaraswamy, son of Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy in Mandya.

The actor interacted with Dr. Ravindra and sought his support to emerge victorious in the election. He ended his fast after the interaction. "Neither I am worried about charges against me nor will I react," she told reporters. Sumalatha is visiting temples whichever village she visits. So far, she visited around 15 temples and has toured all eight taluks, including K.R. Nagar.

Swabhimanakkaagi Sumalatha

Meanwhile, 'Sumalatha for Self-Respect' (Swabhimanakkaagi Sumalatha) is the slogan that is gripping Mandya these days. The affection for Ambarish, entry of 'outsider' Nikhil Kumaraswamy as the Congress-JD(S) consensus candidate, Sumalatha's image as an educated and dignified 'daughter-in-law' of Mandya is working in favour of Sumalatha. Adding to this are the personal remarks made against her by JD(S) leaders that are forcing people to rally around Sumalatha.

Although the Congress has announced that the Mandya seat will be given to JD(S), party workers continued to express solidarity with Sumalatha.

While Block Congress leaders in Nagamangala and Srirangapatna have put up flex boards with messages wishing her good luck, some party workers accompanied her when she met Dr. Ravindra.

"We coined 'Swabhimanakkaagi Sumalatha' to protect the dignity of Sumalatha. We want her as our MP now as we want Ambarish's legacy to continue with her," said a Congress worker indicating that the slogan reflects the common sentiment reflected by voters across Mandya.

Against Cong. leadership

Prasanna, Nagamangala Block chief and follower of former Minister N. Cheluvarayaswamy told reporters yesterday that if they obeyed the directions of the Congress high command and support Nikhil, then their own party workers will criticise them. "If we campaign for Nikhil and seek votes for the JD(S), then Congress workers and Ambarish fans will beat us up," he said.

Other local Congress leaders have virtually upped the ante against the Congress leadership as they are openly declaring support for Sumalatha.

Congress leaders are particularly upset with senior Congress Minister D.K. Shivakumar, who held discussions with them in a bid to quell rebellion and get the local unit to support Nikhil.

Opens Facebook page

Sumalatha Ambarish has opened an official Facebook page in her name. The page is aimed at seeking support for her in the run up to the LS polls. Sumalatha had opened a Twitter account earlier and was active on Twitter, maintaining contacts with the people of Mandya.

In this week's Pet Talk, Maneka talks about housing requirements, nutrient requirements of elephants

Pet Talk

Maneka Gandhi

Are Indian elephants endangered?

The Indian elephant population is between 20,000 and 25,000 in the wild. This means severely endangered, specially because there are less than 1,000 male tuskers left.

The selective elimination of the male due to their tusks has resulted in a skewed sex ratio in some parts of the country. Now, the Asian elephant is listed in the Schedule I of the Wildlife (Protection) Act, 1972.

The elephant is being killed mainly by two bodies: Temples, who beat and starve their elephants (no exceptions) and use them for festivals and to beg. Private owners, who do the same thing for tourists. Both poach elephants from the wild. Over 1,000 elephants are killed by them every year.

Do elephants like to interact and be close to people?

Human-elephant relationship is socially complex and depends on a variety of circumstances. For the most part, elephants react very well to humans, but they don't tolerate being treated terribly.

Also, with the human population increasing and moving into elephant areas and taking over or eliminating elephant food, the human-elephant conflict is increasing. This is making the human-elephant interactions dangerous and vulnerable to attacks.

What are the favourable housing requirements for elephants?

The elephants must be housed on earth or sand flooring. There should be sufficient shade and must have very good ventilation. Each elephant must be provided a minimum floor area:

- Weaned Calf (height below 1.5m): 5m X 2.5m.
- Sub-adult elephant (height between 1.50m and 2.25m): 7m X 3.5m.
- Adult elephant (height above 2.25m) and Cow elephant with un-weaned calf: 9m X 6m.

In case of covered sheds, the height of the shed shouldn't be less than 5.5m.

Corrugated Iron sheets, when used for roofing, should be covered by cooling materials.

Proper drainage is a must.

What are the nutrient requirements of an elephant?

An adult elephant's maintenance requires 140 kcal of metabolisable energy, lactation, gestation and growth increase energy requirements by 25-50%. An elephant drinks over 100 litres at one time and up to 225 litres in a day. The minimum feed supply for an elephant is:

Height	Green Fodder (Not less than)
Below 1.5m	100kg
1.5m to 1.8m	150kg
1.81m to 2.25m	200kg

The fodder should be supplemented by ration prescribed by veterinary doctor.

What are some signs of a healthy elephant?

• Frequent movements of extremities; • Free passage of dung and urine; • Apparently normal feeding and watering activities; • Free movements of the body; • Absence of abnormal posture or appearance.

What are some signs that show that elephant is ill?

• Reduced movements of tail, ears, trunk and legs; • Less alert; • Partial closure of eyes; • Changes in the frequency of urination; • Changes in watering behaviour; • Development of oedema; • Anorectic; • Constipation or Diarrhoea.

What are some signs that show that the elephant is in pain?

• Frequent trumpeting or screaming; • Biting the tip of trunk for a long time; • Pushing against some objects, like a pillar or wall; • Frequent sitting or getting up; • Frequent changing of limbs; • Being disobedient; • Charging with sounds; • Attacking the person; • Violently behaving; • Spreading of ears and hissing sounds; • More alert or anxious appearance of eyes and unpredicted movement.

What is the Indian recipe used for the foot care of Indian elephants? What is its use?

The nails coated with the following recipe is found useful by mahouts: • Resin of Gardenia species - 100g; • Camphor - 100g; • Garlic - 100g; • Neem oil - 1L

Crush the peeled garlic and mix it with the resin. Boil it with Neem oil on slow fire for 30 minutes. Add camphor to the hot solution. Cool it. Apply on and around nail region and at insertion points of tusks.

Neem oil acts as a great lubricant. The solution has antiseptic benefits and acts as a good fly repellent.

But most mahouts do horrible things in the name of local medicine. They take burners and burn the feet undersides and nails (I have videos of all the mahouts doing this). They save money by never using antibiotics and making the elephant walk on hot tarred roads so that its feet are burnt. It is important NOT to work an elephant that has foot problems and rest them the same way as you would rest, until the wound or pain is gone.

How do you know that an elephant is happy?

- Tail: Just like a dog, when an elephant's tail is swishing from side to side swatting away flies, it is happy.
- Eyes: If an elephant approaches you with lazy, almost half-closed eyes and its tail swishing from side to side, it is a good sign that the animal is relaxed.
- Feet: A happy elephant will bounce around on its feet and especially its front feet will sort of prance. It will swing its trunk.
- It will bounce while striding.

Is it legal for elephants to be caught and put into Government zoos?

No it is illegal. The order has gone to all Zoos to remove their elephants. But some Zoos flout the law and the CZA, which should be confiscating them, is too ill manned and lazy to do anything.

What should I do when I see an elephant in a temple?

Don't remain quiet. Protest to the pundits there. Do not give any donations. Use RTIs to ask the temple and the local Government why it is there when elephants have been banned in private use from 1972. Keep writing to the papers and social media like Facebook. Start a petition to remove the elephant. Collect money and offer to buy it if the temple is so greedy. File a Police complaint about its mistreatment and demand to see where it is rested and housed. Generally make such a nuisance of yourself that sooner or later the temple gives in.

How can I help dwindling bee population recover?

Bees play a crucial role in the ecosystem — they act as pollinators. The dwindling bee population is a serious threat to the environment as well as agriculture. The major reason why their numbers are declining is habitat loss. Here's a list of things that we humans can do to save the bee population — Plant flowers, flowering bushes and tall flowering trees. Leave out sugar water near areas where bees might come. Stop using pesticides and insecticides. Do not allow people to destroy hives.

Is it alright to let my young children play with guinea pigs?

Guinea pigs are small and relatively easier to take care of, which make them great pets to teach your children about responsibilities and boundaries. However, Guinea pigs are delicate creatures, so ensure your children are supervised while playing with their pet Guinea pig. Teach your children how to carefully handle their pet with love and care, bring them their daily dose of fruits for vitamin C, cleaning up their cage, and other duties, so that your children and their pet bond together.

My guinea pig seems to have blood in his urine. What should I do?

If your guinea pig is peeing red coloured urine then it can by be a symptom of Uroliths or bladder stones. This can be a very serious ailment for your pet and very painful as well. Sometimes, if the stone are small, they can pass out on their own, but if they are big they can get struck in the urethra or cause irritation in the bladder. Sometimes these stones can cause a tear inside the bladder leading to serious complications. If you notice any symptoms, like blood in the urine, pain in the abdomen area, change in urination patterns, or not urinating at all, then immediately consult your vet. It is possible to avoid further complications and problems if the condition is caught early. Also, as preventive measures, give your Guinea pig plenty of water and a healthy and balanced diet to reduce chances of Uroliths.

My guinea pig's teeth fell out. Should I be concerned?

If it has happened for the first time it is not a major cause of concern. Guinea pigs have 'open-rooted' teeth which keep growing throughout their life because of wear and tear of the teeth enamel from the round plant-based diet. However, if the teeth are discoloured, or your Guinea pig is having difficulty consuming food, then you might have to hand feed him/her. Falling of teeth could indicate a lack of Vitamin C in your pet. But if the growing teeth seemed to be misaligned, or causing gum sores, or breaking the skin, consult your Vet.

Work in tandem with Centre to curb terrorism in Mysuru: IGP

Soumendu Mukherjee (second from right), IGP, Internal Security, seen addressing as (from right) SP Amit Singh, City Police Commissioner K.T. Balakrishna and DCP Muthuraj look on.

Mysuru, Mar. 13 (RK&BCT)- Terrorist activities in Mysuru and surrounding districts must be curbed by the local Police after coordinating with the Central and State-level intelligence officers. Internal security advice and alerts issued by the Centre on potential terror acts must be taken seriously, said Soumendu Mukherjee, Inspector General of Police (IGP), Internal Security.

Holding a day-long meeting of Anti-Terror Squad, Police and Intelligence officers at the Office of Superintendent of Police yesterday, Soumendu said that prevention of terror activities was better than hunting for terrorists after they strike.

"Monitoring terror starts with each Policeman collecting information about transport of ammunition, explosives, hard cash and other materials from one place to another and information on suspicious persons entering the city. Such information can be effectively used to foil terror strikes. In addition, guest houses, small paying guest accommodation, bachelor's accommodation, and temporary stay set-ups must be monitored because terrorists do not prefer regular hotel accommodation because of strict CCTV monitoring," he said.

From time to time, the Centre issues terror alerts and these must be taken seriously by Police Chiefs and instructions must percolate to the local Police Station level. "For better results, the officers of anti-terror squad must closely coordinate with the Centre and its intelligence officers for security inputs and discuss measures to curb terror activities," he advised.

"You must coordinate with State Intelligence Wing, Internal Security Division and also Intelligence Bureau to break terror plans and disrupt their activities," he said. Mysuru has an Anti-Terror Squad (ATS) that has been set up following the directions from the Office of Director General and Inspector General of Police (DG and IGP) to prevent terror activities and Mysuru is the only city apart from Bengaluru to be equipped with a dedicated squad to deal with terror activities.

The ATS squad consists of 90 personnel that includes 58 from Commando Team and 32 from Swift Action Team (SWAT). The squad is a combination of several wings and will work in tandem to keep a tab on any terror activities.

As part of the meeting, Soumendu Mukherjee also chaired a workshop organised for ATS personnel and briefed the participating men about the activities to be conducted as part of the new set up. The participants were told to fine-tune their knowledge both with national and international affairs related to terrorist activities.

The IGP told City Police Commissioner K.T. Balakrishna to introduce a standard operating procedure to enable the squad to work in accordance with the do's and don'ts. The squad will also undergo training at the exclusive training centre in Bengaluru. SP Amit Singh, DCP Muthuraj, ASP Sneha, ACPs, Inspectors and Special Branch staff were present.

Fire atop Ch. Hill yet again

Mysuru, Mar. 13 (MTY&KS) - Fire has destroyed dry grass, trees and other plants near the Nandi Statue atop Chamundi Hill this noon.

DCF Dr. Prashanth and staff, who rushed to the spot, were trying to control the fire from spreading further but are facing difficulties due to extensive heat and wind. Movement of vehicles towards Nandi Statue from View Point side has been restricted for safety.

Fire and Emergency Service Personnel rushed to the spot along with fire extinguishing vehicles when we went to the press.

It may be recalled that on Mar. 8, a major wildfire broke out at Chamundi Hill destroying an estimated 25 acres of forest cover.

On Feb. 24, fire was spotted on Chamundi Hill near Uttanahalli junction on Mysuru-Nanjangud road. Students and passersby volunteered on their own and after taking instructions from the Fire officials, helped them in dousing the fire.

Pig rearers told to rear the animals in own places

Mysuru, Mar.13 (KS)- Despite giving several notices individually and through the media by the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) asking pig rearers not to leave the animals on roads and public places, most of the pig rearers are still leaving the animals on roads and other places coming under MCC limits which is leading to accidents besides causing inconvenience to the public.

Hence, the Civic Body has issued a final notice asking pig owners to rear them in their own place, failing which the stray pigs would be seized, according to a press release from the MCC Commissioner.

1,266 arms licence holders in Mysuru asked to deposit weapons by Mar.19

Mysuru, Mar. 13 (RK&BCT)- There are 1,266 licenced arms holders in Mysuru and they are required to surrender the weapons to their respective jurisdictional Police Stations till May 27. This is in view of Election Model Code of Conduct that has come into force. This is a step to maintain law and order during elections.

In a press release, City Police Commissioner K.T. Balakrishna has stated that gun licence holders are mandated to deposit their guns, along with the licences, in their jurisdictional Police Station before Mar. 19.

The order has been issued under Criminal Procedure Code (CrPC) 1973 Col. 144 and Arms Act 1959 Col. 24 (a) and Col. 24 and people are barred from possession, transportation and display of arms, explosives.

There will be no exemption in this rule and only Kodava race and Jamma land holders will be exempted from the rule as weapons are part of their customs and rituals.

"The City and Mysuru District have an exclusive Arms Committee comprising City Police Commissioner, Deputy Commissioner of Police (law and order), Deputy Commissioner and Superintendent of Police and those needing exemption have to produce relevant documents and state convincing reasons for the exemption. The final authority to grant the exemption rests with the Committee and even with respect to communities, exemption can be denied if the weapon holder is indulging in any criminal activities," the Police Commissioner said.

Jamma land holders of Kodagu, Kodava race exempted unless they have criminal history

As in Mysuru, Mandya Deputy Commissioner N. Manjushree and Chamarajanagar Deputy Commissioner B.B. Cauvery have ordered the licenced gun holders to surrender their weapons.

In Kodagu, there are 23,000 weapon holders (Kodava race and Jamma holders) and apart from this, there are 4,350 gun licence holders. While the Kodava race and Jamma holders are exempted from surrendering their weapons, licenced gun holders have to mandatorily deposit the weapons and licences in the jurisdictional Police Stations, said Kodagu Deputy Commissioner Annies Kanmani Joy.

Here too, if any person is found to be indulging in any criminal activity, the Police and the District Administration have the powers to confiscate the guns when the Model Code of Conduct is in force. The weapons so deposited may be taken back by a licence holder on or after May 27 after completion of the election process.

Marriage and raising family must not be ultimate goal of girl child: Trishika Kumari Wadiyar

Mysuru, Mar. 13 (US&PM)- Marking International Women's Day, Sri Jain Shwetambar Terapanth Mahila Mandal had organised a seminar on 'Women Empowerment' at Terapanth Bhavan on M.G. Road here this morning.

Speaking as the chief guest, Trishika Kumari Wadiyar reflected the contributions of women in the making of modern Karnataka, formerly Mysore State.

Recalling the legacy of Mysore Maharajas, she said that Maharanis Lakshmammanni, Devarajammanni and Vani Vilasa Sannidhana and others had contributed greatly to the betterment of Mysore.

"Today we are very fortunate to be in a society where voices of women are starting to be heard, yet there are many women who can't voice out their pain. We must stand by them and be their voice," said Trishika Kumari.

Continuing, she said, "Our stance in society depends on what we teach our children, the upbringing we give them. To every girl child, marriage and raising a family must not be the ultimate goal in life.

But most importantly, to every boy child we must help them develop lasting beliefs in equality and respecting women in our society. My husband recognises this and has never shown discrimination of any kind. He is in fact one of the main reasons that I am here standing on this podium. Hence, I urge all parents to start with their children and our country will definitely be a safer and happier place not just for women but the society as a whole."

On the occasion, a short play was enacted to spread message on women empowerment.

Mandal Chairperson Vanmala Nahar, Vice-Chairperson Sudha Nolhk, Secretary Khamosh Mehar and others were present.

Two-day 'Ignite -2019' fest at Vidya Vikas College

Mysuru, Mar.13 (PM&US)- The two-day Annual State-level Commerce, Management and IT Fest 'IGNITE -2019' organised by Vidya Vikas First Grade College got off to a colourful start at "Lalitha Smaraka Bhavana" Auditorium at its premises on Bannur Road here yesterday.

The fest includes core events like Human Resource Management, Financial Analysis, Best Manager, Marketing, Photography, Treasure Hunt, Games and Codification, an innovative IT event.

Inaugurating the programme, Mysore University Vice-Chancellor Prof. G. Hemantha Kumar opined that such events would hone the communication skills of students who otherwise would be ill-equipped with only classroom lessons.

He however pointed out that today's students were really smart and raring to accept challenges in this competitive world.

He advised students not to worry about winning a prize in any contest as participation was more important than result. He suggested that at least 10% of graduating students should become entrepreneurs.

Mysore University College Development Council Director Dr. S. Srikanta Swamy was the guest of honour. Vidya Vikas Institutions Secretary Kaveesh V. Gowda presided.

Director (Academics) Dr. Michael Noronha, College Principal Dr. Mujeeda Banu, Programme Co-ordinators Oscar Abhishek, Dr. C.J. Priya and others were present.

About 100 students from various colleges participated in the fest that concluded this evening.

Pointing out that the BBM course was newly-introduced then, Balakrishna said that though he was not a bright student, he studied hard to gain knowledge.

Noting that fests such as these help the students to share and exchange ideas, he called upon the students to make good use of their students days for shaping a good career.

G.S. Raghavendra, Founder and Director, Geloof Industries Private limited, Bengaluru, who inaugurated the event, said that it was vital for the students to have an action plan of what they are going to do.

Prof. Lingaraja Gandhi

Highlighting the advantages of developing a competitive spirit, he said that such events will help the students to hone their skills.

"Education makes ordinary an extraordinary"

Prof. Lingaraja Gandhi, Registrar of University of Mysore, in his valedictory address said "There are no short cuts for success; an individual can succeed only with efforts and hard work. He/she can attain success beyond whatever hurdles they face in their life. Education is the only power that elevates an ordinary person to an extraordinary one."

"The society is almost marks oriented. But a student who graduates from a college/University should be aware of the values he has gained from an institution. He must become an asset to such an institution. We must all have a vision of our future and think in what way we can contribute to our country, our society, to the mankind, for which we have to work incessantly," he said.

Many events were organised, both core and non-core events, for the students of various colleges. Winners and runners were given cash prizes and trophies with certificates of excellence and participation. The overall winners were awarded cash prize of Rs.15,000 with trophy. WORD OF THE DAY

Leviathan

Pronunciation: luh-VYE-uh-thun

Meaning: Sea monster, something which is extremely large and difficult to control, and which you find rather frightening or variously thought of as a reptile or a whale.

Origin: Old Testament references to a huge sea monster, Leviathan (in Hebrew, Liwyāthān), are thought to spring from an ancient myth in which the god Baal slays a multi-headed sea monster. Leviathan appears in the book of Psalms as a sea serpent that is killed by God and then given as food to creatures in the wilderness, and it is referred to in the book of Job as well. We began equating Leviathan with the political state after the philosopher Thomas Hobbes used the word in (and as the title of) his 1651 political treatise on government. Today, Leviathan often suggests a crushing political bureaucracy. Leviathan can also be immensely useful as a general term meaning "something monstrous or of enormous size."

Example: "Fossils of the ancient leviathan were unearthed from 480-million-year-old rocks exposed on a hillside in south-eastern Morocco." — Sid Perkins, Science, 11 Mar. 2015. "The extension of the Star Wars story has been the biggest global movie phenomenon since Avatar.... It is a leviathan, totalling nearly $4.5 billion in global ticket sales and an entire sub-cultural media industry." — Sean Fennessey, The Ringer, 25 May 2018.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Hunt and peck

Meaning: Typing by looking for characters on the keyboard individually or using an inexpert form of typing in which only one or two fingers are used.

Origin: The expression 'hunt and peck' of course began with the typewriter and we need not look for its origin beyond the date of that machine's invention. As it turns out, that gives us quite some scope as the earliest machines that can lay claim to being called typewriters date from the early 18th century. In the UK in 1714, Henry Mill was granted Patent No. 395, which was described by the patent committee.

Early typewriters were heavy and not suited to fast typing — there was little alternative to 'hunt and peck' as a typing method. Nevertheless, the expression didn't come into public use for some long time after typewriters were in general circulation. The first mention of it that I can find in print is in American newspapers from the WWI period. An example is found in the Texas newspaper The Daily Bulletin, January 1916.

GST collection nets Rs.94,000 crore every month: Excise Chief

20,000 crore fake invoices detected

Mysuru, Mar.13 (NNN)- Implementation of GST (Goods and Service Tax) has been hugely successful and the Governments across the country have collected Rs.94,000 crore through GST every month, said Sundara Raju, Joint Commissioner, Central Excise, GST Commissionerate, Mysuru.

Speaking during annual Finance and Taxation Conference on 'Digital Transformation in Finance and Taxation' organised by Confederation of Indian Industry (CII), Mysuru Chapter, at Hotel Southern Star here recently, he said: "Through implementation of GST, the filing of returns have been simplified. GST has helped reduce the tax rates and the processing of registration returns has been simplified. In this scenario, so many issues have come to picture particularly fake invoices."

Around 20,000 crore fake invoices have been detected across the country and GSTN (Goods and Services Tax Network) System helping them to trace these revenue leakages, he said and cautioned the industry to have their KYC (Know Your Customer) norms in place to ensure they are dealing with genuine vendors.

"Due to digitalisation and automation, the system will give us alerts in pop ups if there is delay in filing tax. Apart from this, the system itself will give the ranking. Now everything is going through the system. Social reformation and economics reformation has to go neck to neck and only then any developed country can grow and dream of digital India and Make in India will be successfully implemented," said Sundaraju.

Sundara Raju (centre), Joint Commissioner, Central Excise, GST Commissionerate, Mysuru, is seen with (from left) Bhaskar Kalale, Vice-Chairman (now Chairman), CII Mysuru; N. Muthukumar, Chairman, CII Karnataka; Arjun Ranga, Chairman (now Past Chairman), CII Mysuru and S. Raman Kumar, Convenor, Finance and Taxation Panel, CII Mysuru, during the annual Finance and Taxation Conference held at a private hotel in city in February.

He also mentioned that till January, in Mysuru Commisionerate alone 9,500 people have not filed their returns and asked the industry to complete the compliances.

N. Muthukumar, Chairman, CII Karnataka and President and Whole Time Director of Automotive Axles, said, "India is going through fastest transformation; the vision set by Government is that by 2025 it should become 5 trillion dollar economy, that is third largest economy in the globe and by 2030 assume 10 trillion dollar economy. This will have an implication on every one of us. Indians need to be competitive in many more fields. In another ten years, e-Vehicle is going to come and many jobs in manufacturing will not be there. If we are not able to upgrade our skills from transaction expert to an analytical expert, it will be difficult to survive. Next ten years those going to use the data effectively are going to be at the top of the world."

Arjun Ranga, Chairman (now Past Chairman), CII, Mysuru, said: "Digital transformation has resulted in reducing the staff and the manpower has come down. The moment transformed data is available across the system, visibility starts to happen to finance ahead of time and planning can improve greatly. In another five years, finance will be redefined and everything going to be automated."

Participants from various industries especially in Finance Department attended in large numbers. Bhaskar Kalale, Vice-Chairman (now Chairman), CII, Mysuru Chapter, S. Raman Kumar, Convenor, Finance and Taxation Panel CII Mysuru and S. Ranganathan, Co-Convenor of Finance and Taxation Panel of CII, were also present, according to a press release from Augustine, Deputy Director, CII, Mysuru.
